TOBIN CUTS BUDGET $1,857,507

City's Tax Rate $1.10 Less Than Predicted

Mayor Tobin today submitted to the city council the 1939 budget for departments under his control—with $1,857,507 slashed from last year's figures.

The huge sum would represent a chopping of $1.10 from anticipated Boston tax rate, which the mayor has repeatedly predicted must increase from $3.50 to $4 over the present rate of $41.30 per $1000 valuation.

STATE TAX ON U.S. PAY UPHELD

WASHINGTON, March 17 (INS)—A precedent-shattering decision, the Supreme Court today ruled that states can levy income tax against employees and officials of the United States government.

The decision overruled previous decision of the high court, which held that these employees and officials are constitutionally immune from taxation by the states.

SIX TO TWO DECISION

The decision was six to two. Justices McReynolds and Butler dissented. The majority opinion was announced by Justice Stone.

The decision was rendered in two cases. One involved the claim of the state of New York to the right to tax the salary of James R. O'Keefe, employee of the Federal Home Owners Loan Corporation.

The other involved Utah's claim to right to tax the salary of W. Q. Van Cott, counsel for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The high court's determination is expected to bring 800,000 federal, state, county and city employees within the tax system of either federal or state governments, dependent upon enactment of laws applying to them.

The ruling is expected to speed action on a bill pending in the Senate for reciprocal taxation of federal, state and local employees. The bill already has passed the House.

In the New York case, the high tribunal reversed the New York court of appeals. It held that James R. O'Keefe, the employee of HOLC, was entitled to a refund of $72.28 income tax levied by the state.

BACK TO STATE COURT

The court, in the Van Cott case, applied its doctrine but sent it back to the state court for a ruling on whether the Utah income tax, which exempted federal employees by its terms, can now be decided by the state supreme court apart from any question of constitutionality.

Justice Stone in the majority opinion, pointed out that the court previously had ruled that the federal government can collect income tax from employees of the New York port authority, a state instrumentality.

He also said that the Home Owners Loan Corporation is Continued on Page 13, Column 1

The threatened tax increase comes from the huge state tax boost and the increased deficit in operation of the Boston Elevated.

In submitting his 1939 budget, Mayor Tobin said he fears he may have to borrow $1,000,000 this year for welfare relief.

EXPENSES INCREASE

The 1939 budget, which was referred by the council to its committee on finance, with public hearings expected to begin later this week, calls for $38,860,605 in appropriations, as against the $40,418,112 figure for 1938.

For Suffolk County allowances—which expense is borne by the city of Boston—appropriations of $3,727,240 are asked, an increase of $142,975 over the 1938 figures.

The increase is caused by the opening of the new Pemberton square courthouse, with increased cost of upkeep and increased personnel.

In submitting the budget, Mayor Tobin said it is impossible to forecast the Boston tax rate for 1939 at this time.

The mayor said he effected a saving of $50,000 in expenses of the election department, but is required to provide $75,000 as a special item for the re-registration of voters under a law passed by the last legislature.

There is agitation now, however, to repeal that act.

DEPARTMENTS SLASHED

Other savings effected are $37,600 in the health department, $172,600 in the park department, $104,000 at City Hospital, $12,000 at Long Island Hospital, $46,000 in the library department, $42,000 in soldiers' relief and $2358 in expenses of the mayor's office.

For snow removal, however, the estimate is given as $400,000, as against only $235,000 provided for in the 1938 budget.

The mayor said there will be no increases in the present number of police or firemen but that vacancies through deaths, retirements and resignations will be filled throughout the year.

FRANCE WILL BOW IN PART TO MUSSOLINI'S DEMANDS

PARIS, March 27—France is willing to negotiate with Italy and make concessions to Premier Mussolini's African demands—but not immediately—it was learned today.

Proposals that France will put forward later, when the Spanish war is over and the general European atmosphere has improved, already have been tentatively offered in Rome by Andre Francois-Poncet, the French ambassador. According to authoritative sources, these offers are:

FRANCE CONTROLS CANAL

Two seats on the board of directors of the Suez Canal and a substantial block of stock in the canal company.

A large share in the direction and ownership of the Ethiopian railroad.

Rectification of the southern frontier of Tunisia.

A measure of autonomy for Italians in Tunisia.

(Background note: Built under the direction of a Frenchman, Ferdinand de Lesseps, at a cost of $158,000,000, the 163-mile long Suez Canal linking the Mediterranean with the trade routes to the Orient, was opened in 1869 by the Empress Eugenie.)

(The British government, before the canal was completed, purchased

DEATH FOR EIGHT—Inferno of death was this smouldering wreckage of 14-passenger twin-motored transport plane as it crashed in flames en route from Chicago to Dallas, claiming eight lives. The plane had just left Oklahoma City airport and, according to Capt. Claude Seaton, pilot, one of the four persons who escaped with injuries, the motor "shook to pieces."

'Motor Went to Pieces,' Says Pilot of Plane in Which 8 Died

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 27 (AP)—A powerful motor which "went to pieces" was blamed by the pilot today for the fiery crash of a twin-engined, 14-passenger Baniff airliner which killed eight persons.

DIES—Miss Louise Zarr, stewardess of the 14-passenger twin-motored transport plane which crashed at Oklahoma City, killing her and seven others.

Four persons, including the pilot, Capt. Claude Seaton of Dallas, escaped with injuries in the Sunday morning crash.

The pilot's physician, Dr. H. D. Collins, said Seaton told him "a motor 'went to pieces' in the air." The doctor said he took it "that he meant that the motor failed."

MOTOR WENT BAD

Federal investigators examined the debris of the motor as they sought to determine the cause of the crash.

Of the four survivors, Carl Erickson, a passenger from Chicago, was least seriously injured. The others, Capt. Seaton, Co-Pilot Malcolm Wallace, and Perry R. Smith, a passenger, Corpus Christi, Tex., were injured seriously but were expected to recover.

"We had just taken off," said Erickson. "I was sitting on the left side and was looking out the window. The propeller seemed to give way and the left motor went bad. Then we crashed."

The eight killed were trapped in the plane that burst into flames.

WING TORN OFF

The ship smashed into the ground just west of the municipal airport boundary lights about 3 a. m. It just had taken off into a north wind when it radioed:

"Turn on lights. Returning to field."

was torn off. Part of the cabin was shorn away.

The pilot and co-pilot were thrown from the wreckage. The two passengers who escaped alive pulled off their safety belts and struggled from the plane just as it caught fire.

The bodies of the victims were slumped in the forward part of the ship. The hostess, Miss Louise Zarr, 25, Dallas, was at her post. Miss Joan Allan, 35, an Evanston, Ill., nurse, and one of the eight victims had "sensed a tragic death because of a terrible dream she had two weeks ago."

BENNY'S $256,000 TAX GEM DEFENSE

NEW YORK, March 27 (AP)—The Daily News said today Radio Comedian Jack Benny would plead nolo contendere—no defense—when he goes on trial next Monday in Federal court here on charges of smuggling $2131 worth of jewelry into this country.

The News said it had learned from sources close to Benny that if the court refuses to accept this plea, the comedian is prepared to plead guilty.

In the latter event, the newspaper added, Benny planned to point out he had paid $256,000 in income taxes in 1938 without protest and that it was unreasonable to assume he would attempt to defraud the government of $500 in customs duties.

Benny, the News said, would explain he bought the jewels—now held by the government—in good faith from Albert N. Chaperau, whom he had met in Cannes, France.

Guilt pleas also were entered several months ago by George Burns, husband of the radio and screen comic, Gracie Allen, and by Mrs. Elma N. Lauer, wife of New York State Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Lauer.

Mix-up Delays N. H. Poisoner's Hearing

KEENE, N. H., March 27—A mixup over municipal court jurisdiction today blocked arraignment of Alfred Wojchick, 35-year-old highway worker, as an alleged double slayer in a poison plot that failed.

As funerals of the two victims were being conducted, Defense Attorney Arthur Olson and County Solicitor John R. Goodnow, who had agreed to arraignment in Keene instead of in Winchester, waited here while Judge Charles Madden considered his right of jurisdiction.

Judge Madden told the attorneys the alleged double murders by poison liquor had occurred within the Winchester court territory.

GUARD AGAINST SUICIDE

The judge had not made a ruling this afternoon, and meanwhile Wojchick was held without bail in custody of the sheriff here and was guarded against any possibility of a suicide attempt.

Since the deaths of his brother-in-law, Edgar Smart, 29, of Ashuelot, and the latter's next-door neighbor, Mrs. Julia Wheaton, 25, from liquor allegedly poisoned by Wojchick, the prisoner has been in a state of despondency.

Haggard and near exhaustion from ceaseless pacing in his cell, the prisoner thought only of his 19-year-old estranged wife, Lois, who was to be the central figure in the "mistake" murder plot, according to police.

In his alleged confession, police said Wojchick admitted he had purchased the liquor and added poison as a last resort of a final attempt for reconciliation with his young bride failed.

FUNERALS FOR VICTIMS

Police said he intended to end both her life and his.

Funeral services for Mrs. Wheaton, herself a bride, were held in St. Michael's Church in Ashuelot—the town of the poison highball deaths—while guards took Wojchick for arraignment in court.

A few hours later, Smart's services were held in nearby Winchester.

County Attorney John R. Goodnow announced Wojchick, Brattleboro, Vt., town employee, had made a full confession that the liquor was for himself and his pretty wife if he failed to win her love.

Goodnow said the prisoner confessed poisoning the liquor with

Harvard Gold Fish Eater Now Living Bowl

IRVING M. CLARK

Handle With Care—He's an Aquarium

This is strictly a fish story. A hastily formed S. P. C. S. G. and P. E. G. (Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Swallowed Goldfish and Preservation of Existing Goldfish) descended upon Harvard today, en masse, and on Irving M. Clark, 20-year-old intercollegiate goldfish swallower champion, in particular.

Rodline Sinker, president of the organization, told the chastened Mr. Clark that the society's ire was aroused by the recent promiscuous swallowing of goldfish, and that it planned to halt further such depredations.

His ultimatum was briefly: "Clark must go off the goldfish standard."

Furthermore Clark, President Sinker said, would have to do something about the unfortunate "twenty three."

Goldfish, Sinker further asserted, were not created to swim in gastric juices. Their natural habitat was water and it was the society's purpose to see they got water—even to the extent of making Clark a living goldfish bowl.

So, after the capacity of Clark's stomach was plumbed right to its fleshy pinna, a diet of two gallons of water a day was prescribed.

Americans Launch War in Brazil

NEW DEATH MOSQUITO
PERL TO U. S.

On a far-flung line in far-off Brazil men in white are battling a new scourge to prevent its spread so that one day, carrying sickness and death, it may not menace all persons here in the fancied security of their New England homes.

The new Public Enemy No. 1 of the tropics is anopheles gambiae, a malaria-carrying mosquito, unknown there before 1930, believed to have hitch-hiked across the South Atlantic on a French airplane, or on a French destroyer during the development of air-mail routes.

So serious is he that some 50,000 cases of malaria developed in one locality in Brazil during 1938, with a death incidence of about 10 per cent.

$100,000 FOR WAR

And the Rockefeller Foundation, which issued its report about the menace today, has set aside $100,000 to be expended this year in an effort to prevent the spread of the insect in Brazil, to keep it within bounds where it can be stamped out, and prevent it sweeping up over Central America into the United States.

Anopheles gambiae is a native of Africa, from the Sahara to the Zambesi river. In 1930 the development of the French air-line between Dakar and Natal was begun, and the mosquito suddenly appeared in Natal, where it was found by Dr. Raymond C. Shannon, a member of the foundation's staff, during a routine yellow fever survey.

He recognized the importance of the find, but it was hoped that the invasion could be kept under control by natural conditions unfriendly to the invader.

50,000 STRICKEN

The mosquito refused to stay out, however, and soon appeared in the interior, specifically in the Jaguaride Valley, where the 50,000 cases were reported last year. So serious was the epidemic, the report states, that crops were not planted, said deposits were not worked, and, as a consequence, virtually all inhabitants of the valley with this year be dependent upon the government for support.

"If the gambiae should break through the well-watered Parana-hyba and Sao Francisco river valleys, it is feared it would be impossible to present its spread to a large part of South, Central and perhaps even North America," warns the report.

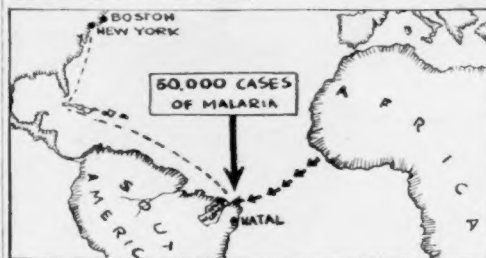

"The Parana-hyba valley is 300 miles from Natal; the gambiae mosquitoes are already nearly halfway there."

The report states that "providentially much is known about the gambiae."

"The mosquito is described as being a prolific breeder, requiring only seven or eight days to develop from egg to adult, a fact that makes breeding possible in very temporary water collections. It has variable habits, but seems to prefer stagnant, sunlit water. Of 172 specimens subjected to dissection it was found that 82.5 per cent were disease carriers.

(Can the deadly African malaria mosquito reach Boston? Read more about this battle of science to save your life, in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.)

DEATH'S HOP—Stowaways on planes from Africa, mosquitoes bring their own stowaway cargoes of malaria germs . . . see map . . . to scatter the infection through South America . . . threatening North America the same way. In the State of Ceara, Brazil, 50,000 cases of malaria already have been reported.

Former State Senator Robert E. Bigney, sponsor of a bill that would require all members of the Governor's council to live in the districts they represent, today testified it was aimed directly at Councilor Daniel H. Coakley.

"This bill is a personal issue between Coakley and myself," Bigney told the legislative committee on election laws, "but it ought to be approved on a basis of fairness."

Several times an opponent of Coakley's for the Democratic council nomination, Bigney said Coakley lives in the third district, represented by Councilor Frank Brooks, but that for several years he had represented the fourth.

Representative Philip Bowker of Brookline also favored the measure.

CLIPPER
AZORES

HORTA, the Azores, March 27 (AP)—The 12-ton American flying boat Yankee Clipper, carrying the largest number of persons ever to fly the Atlantic in a heavier-than-air machine, glided smoothly to a landing here at 8:09 a. m. E. S. T., today completing the first leg of a trans-oceanic survey flight from Baltimore.

AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

The 74-passenger flying liner, with 21 crewmen and technicians aboard, covered about 2800 miles on the first part of its maiden ocean flight nearly half an hour ahead of schedule, making the trip in the official time of 17 hours and 32 minutes.

This was at an average speed of 185 miles an hour. The ship had left Baltimore at 2:34 p. m. E. S. T. Sunday.

Capt. Harold E. Gray, in command of the ship said:

"It was the most comfortable kind of a journey."

After a stay here at which Horta facilities as a base for such large craft will be studied the trip will be continued to Lisbon, Portugal; Marseille, France; Southampton, Eng., and Fynes, Ire.

CHEERED ON ARRIVAL
"I don't expect to take off for the rest of the trip for a few days," Capt. Gray said, "but the exact time depends on developments and weather reports."

"It was an easy landing, with a calm sea and summer sunshine and a fair west wind. None of us were tired after the long but pleasant trip."

The clipper alighted in the Channel on a glassy sea and taxied into the harbor as Horta authorities and the people cheered.

U. S. Jail Trip
Profits Probe
May Go to Jury

With the federal grand jury due to convene tomorrow, "undercover" investigation of alleged irregularities in transportation of prisoners to U. S. institutions was being pressed today.

Recent resignations of United States Marshal John J. Murphy and Chief Deputy Marshal John F. Burke called public attention to a government probe already in progress, in connection with expense vouchers presented by members of the marshal's staff. It was charged that these vouchers were "padded" to make illegal profits possible in transportation of federal prisoners.

Under direction of U. S. Attorney Edmund J. Brandon, government agents were quietly but intensively busy today, making a final check-up of records in the marshal's office.

Reports that evidence so gathered would be presented to the grand jury during its sitting, opening tomorrow, were general at the federal building.

"Insiders," however, were emphatic in discrediting these reports.

BOY SCOUT ATTACKER GUARDED

WESTFIELD, March 27—Police guards stood today by the bed of Harris Blanchard of Agawam, 26-year-old scoutmaster charged with assault with intent to murder Edward LeClair, 16, West Granville Boy Scout.

Both Blanchard, suffering from self-inflicted neck gashes, and the boy, near death with a bullet at the base of his skull, were in Noble Hospital.

Each recovered consciousness today, but their conditions were described as so serious that police hesitated to question them further concerning the background of the shooting in a camp on the LeClair farm—a background of conditions termed "shocking" by authorities.

BOY SOUGHT BREAK

According to State Detective Richard Cotter, Blanchard shot the boy because LeClair wanted to break up a friendship that began six months ago. Then, in remorse at his act, he tried to end his life by slashing himself with a six-inch broad knife. He is under heavy guard, charged with assault with intent to murder.

Both assailant and victim are in a critical condition at the same hospital.

In a confession made to Detective Cotter in the presence of Deputy Sheriff Stanley Beckwith of West Granville and State Patrolman Michael Reading, Blanchard said he planned a week ago to murder LeClair because the boy told him he intended to resign from the scout troop.

STAYED AFTER MEETING

On Saturday night both remained behind following a meeting in the Boy Scout camp.

Blanchard said he drew from his pocket a .22 calibre revolver he had borrowed from a friend. At sight of the weapon LeClair jumped for the scoutmaster and they battled all over the camp.

When they were near a bench, Blanchard got hold of an automobile wrench and struck the boy with it, stunning him. Then he shot him, he said.

Joan's Time, if Not Her Heart, All for Franchot Tone Today

NEW YORK, March 27—Joan Crawford's time—if not her heart—today belongs to Franchot—the husband she expects to divorce tomorrow at Los Angeles.

Glamorous Joan, with Husband Tone's Daeshund "Pupphen" at her heels, tripped into New York with her date book almost exclusively reserved for Franchot.

First it was lunch. Then she will dine with the tall, pale screen lover and continue on to see him in his role in "The Gentle People."

But tomorrow the deposition which Joan sought to save her embarrassment on the witness stand will be read in a Los Angeles courtroom, contending Franchot was too frivolous. She expects immediate divorce.

She will never marry again, according to her story to interviewers.

"Fool me once, shame on you. Fool me twice, shame on me!" she quoted. (She's been married twice!)

But romance was not letting the glamorous Joan alone.

It started with a big kiss for her press agent, Milton Weiss, the receipt of a box of orchids which some mysterious person has been sending her daily since she reached Chicago, and with a great show of interest (for a now avowed bachelor girl in a remark, relayed from Charlie Martin, Universal director, that "he'd love to marry you."

2 YOUTHS HELD IN GIRL ATTACKS

Two South Braintree youths were held in bonds of $5000 each in Quincy district court today after pleading not guilty to serious charges in connection with alleged attacks on two Stoughton girls.

They are Nicholas Pablano, 22, and James M. Aiello, 26, both of Pond street. Pablano was held in an additional $100 after he pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault and battery on one of the girls.

Judge David Nagle continued the cases to March 31.

Their alleged victims are Eleanor Savini, 17, of Leach street, and Edna Rafalko, 19, of Perry street, both of Stoughton.

The girls told police that after a dance in Braintree Town Hall they waited for a friend who had promised to drive over from Stoughton and take them home.

When he had failed to arrive by 1:30 they started to walk, only to be overtaken by a car containing two young men who made the offer of taking them home.

Instead, according to the girls, the car was driven to a wooded section of Braintree.

Eleanor and Edna were ordered out of the car, and when Edna protested she was knocked down. In tears, she said she had lost her pocketbook, and while pretending to look for it, seized the opportunity to flee into the woods, wet with rain.

Both assailants then attacked her companion, according to her story, and then entering their car, drove away.

Hearing the sound of the retreating automobile, Edna rejoined her friend and the girls then made their way to the home of Patricia Norveline, who notified police headquarters.

Pablano and Aiello were arrested at their homes.

Old Sol Due To Shine Real Springy Soon

Okay, now, girls! You can take that new spring suit out of its tissue paper!

Believe it or not, the sun is due to shine tomorrow, and the forecaster says there'll be just enough tang in the air to put a lift in your walk and natural roses in your cheeks.

Gray skies are expected to clear by nightfall, all over New England. And there'll be brisk northerly breezes, to make short skirts a mental hazard—and whirl dust into the proverbial "bad man's eye."

Spring Breezes Bring Snow to Mid-West

CHICAGO, March 27 (AP)—It's the spring season throughout the land, but winter came back to the Middle West today.

Snow fell in South Dakota and northern Nebraska, Bemidji, Minn., had a temperature of 4 above zero; Park Falls, Wis., reported 12 above; and northern Michigan also shivered.

Beauty Hints by Arline Gould every day in the Boston American.

Is Your Hair GOING OR GROWING at these three points?

Is your scalp growing 81 new hairs each day to replace those which become mature and fall out naturally? Or is your hair going—getting thinner and thinner at the (1) temples, (2) crown or (3) frontal point? Thinning hair at these danger points should warn you and alarm you—but should not cause you to feel that baldness is inevitable. Thinning hair can be stopped and baldness can be avoided if you consult a Thomas expert. Ninety percent of all cases of hair loss result from the 14 local scalp disorders which respond readily to Thomas treatment. A Thomas expert knows the symptoms of each of these local scalp ills and knows precisely how to overcome them. He knows how to end dandruff, how to stop abnormal hairfall, and how to promote hair growth on the thin and bald spots.

Consult a Thomas expert today and learn the truth about your hair and scalp. If you do not come within the scope of Thomas treatment you will be frankly told. No charge is ever made for advice, consultation, or complete scalp examination.

GUARD N. H. KILLER TO BALK SUICIDE

a powder used for metal welding which he obtained from the Bratleboro highway department and giving the bottle to Smart with instructions it was only for Mrs. Wojchick.

He said he had told the dead man it was for the exclusive use of himself and Mrs. Wojchick, the only members of the party who ordinarily drank hard liquor, and pointed out that a gallon of wine was for the others.

While Wojchick was outside in his car, talking with his pretty wife in a final attempt at a reconciliation, he told his brother and sister, someone opened the poisoned whiskey and served it.

KEEPS SEEING BODIES

The pint of whiskey, he was quoted as saying, had been spiked with cyanide of potassium, so deadly he it proved, that Mrs. Wheaton and Smart died within a few minutes after consuming the lethal potions. "I had made up my mind that if I couldn't have her, no one else would have her," the prisoner sobbed to his brother and sister, "but I didn't mean to hurt anyone else. If my plan had gone through, Lois and I would be dead and not those others."

"I keep seeing their bodies," he was quoted as saying, as he wrung his hands frenziedly, or tore at his sparse hair. "They're always before me. They're driving me mad."

"I didn't mean to kill them. Why, Edgar was my friend, and Julia Wheaton, I didn't have anything against her. Why did it have to happen that way? Why? Why? I can't sleep. I can't think. All I can do is see their bodies before me."

"My regret now is that I will not get my wife back."

KNOW OF JEALOUSY

Viola Wojchick broke down and cried as Alfred poured out his strange story, some of which was already known to the girl and her brother Wilfred.

They knew, for example, that Albert was extremely jealous of the pretty young wife who had been "on the outs" with him since last fall, and who as a matter of fact had refused to live with her husband.

Although as Viola and Wilfred were aware, Albert was unable to get along with Lois, he still wanted her, he told them, and finally resolved that "if I couldn't have her, no one else would."

Authorities quoted Albert as telling them he doctored the liquor with a welding compound, containing cyanide of potassium and borax, which he obtained from a chest in the highway department.

On a ride to Millers Falls, Mass., last Tuesday his wife spurned some of the poisoned liquor, he said. She had also thrown out the contents of a bottle of similarly poisoned liquor, which he gave her last March 14, he told authorities.

The wife corroborated the latter story and produced the bottle for investigators. A small quantity of fluid remaining in the bottle was taken for analysis.

WIFE IN COLLAPSE

On Friday night, Albert said, he met Lois and Mrs. Wheaton on the road and gave them a lift to the Smart home. He said he took the pint of rye into the house and left it after telling Edgar Smart it was for himself and his wife to drink, and then went out to the car. He was talking with Lois when Smart staggered out the front door and collapsed. Mrs. Wheaton, having been stricken already in the house, Smart's widow, mother of a small daughter, and who expects to become for the second time soon, was in a state of collapse and under the care of a physician.

Earl W. Wheaton, lumberman, and the bewildered husband of the woman victim, was still unable to understand how the tragedy occurred.

"My wife was not a drinking woman," he said. "She didn't like liquor. I can only think she took it to be sociable. She was to have met me at home only a short time later."

Wheaton pointed out that his wife had not been invited to the party, but had been out for a stroll when she met Mrs. Wojchick, and had accompanied her to the home of the Smarts when Wojchick came along and offered them a lift in his car.

TEACHER MISSING IN HUB

Folks of Greater Boston were asked today to seek Gerhard Rehder, 36-year-old Bowdoin College history instructor, reported missing all night from his parents' home in Orchard street, Jamaica Plain.

Discovery that Rehder was missing was made by Dwight Andrews, Braintree square, Cambridge, real estate broker, with whom Rehder had a luncheon date.

Andrews told police he called Rehder's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rehder, only to learn that their son hadn't returned home from a supper and concert date with a Cambridge girl.

The girl told police he escorted her home just before midnight and took her and her mother goodnight.

JAILED FOR BEATING SICK WIFE

NATICK, March 27—When John B. Vespa, 24, of John street, Newton Center, beat his young wife, Eva, at the home of her mother here after a family quarrel, according to police, he should have remembered that he was under a suspended sentence for doing the same thing last July. His failure to remember lodged him in jail, with a new charge confronting him after he has completed the term.

Four times, police say, he has been arrested for assaulting Mrs. Vespa, who at the present time is expecting a baby, and he reported in serious condition at the Leonard Morse Hospital.

'Problem Grownups' Now Goodwin's Bane

Announcing that no child was killed by automobiles during the fourth week of March, Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin pointed out that "this phase of automobile accidents is coming to be a problem. The grownup people now provide the problem."

"During the past week there were eight persons killed, as compared with 11 last year for the same period," said Goodwin. "There were really only six killed during the week, because of the eight deaths recorded, two were persons who died as the result of accidents which happened in January and February."

Four of the five pedestrians killed were run down while crossing the street in the night time. Two of the deaths were caused by operators who were driving under the influence of liquor.

"Total deaths last year to date, 48; this year to date, 102."

The screen program includes "Hollywood Hotel," with Lew Lark, a comedy picture and the usual Broadway fare.

There are some new plays, too, and a few old ones, but the program is well rounded and should be a success.

Dudley Murphy of Winchester, who lived in New York, says while he was directing "One Touch of a Queen," a version of the Broadway stage hit may be in production for the New England premiere Thursday at the Paramount and Parkway Theaters of the same stage drama.

He was in town yesterday visiting relatives and answering questions about this eagerly anticipated picture.

This Paramount picture is based on President Roosevelt's famous phrase:

"I find one-third of a nation ill-housed, ill-clad and ill-nourished."

The picture attacks America's slum conditions and makes a dramatic plea for the oppressed third of our population.

The Life of Christ

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

"Of a truth I say unto you, that this poor widow hath cast in more than they all."—St. Luke XXI, 3.

By COLLIN CLINE

OUR SAVIOUR hated hypocrisy and used harsh words to condemn deceivers, particularly deceivers who pretended to possess virtue and piety.

When, in the closing days of His earthly mission, He encountered a group of saintly men in the Temple, He counseled the people:

"Beware of the Scribes, which desire to walk in long robes, and love greetings in the markets, and the highest seats in the synagogues, and the chief rooms at feasts.

"They are the ones that devour widows' houses, and for show purposes make long prayers. For their offenses, they shall receive greater damnation."

While He was talking, a company of wealthy Pharisees and Scribes approached, arrogantly walked to the altar, and flung down large sums of gold.

Jesus watched them, but chose to ignore their contemptuous pride. His eyes were on a poor widow, who entered by a circuitous route, avoided public gaze and, without pomp or show, left two little coins as her offering.

Then He addressed the congregation again, saying:

"Of a truth I say unto you, that this poor widow hath cast in more than they all: for all these have of their abundance cast in unto the offerings of God; but she of her penury hath cast in all the living that she had."

We may be sure the good woman returned to her home with the blessing of the Father in Heaven on her soul.

But the Pharisees and Scribes departed with only hate and bitterness. For the Son of God had exposed their supposed superiority.

The story is told in painting showing Christ commending the widow's offering of Alexandre Bida, French artist of the last century, who died June 44 years ago.

TOMORROW, the story of Christ's holy life continues in the Boston Evening American, with a handsome reproduction of Paul Gustave Dore's picture, "Lazarus at the Rich Man's House."

CUPID SCORES admirably in Massachusetts. That is, far as mental health is concerned.

State hospital physicians make the emphatic declaration that married men and women are as a class the least apt to become chargeable for admission to any of the various institutions for the insane.

WHY? Undoubtedly, psychiatry can explain it. Perhaps the more orderly lives of wedded persons keep brains sturdy. Perhaps in the partnership of matrimony each party escapes much of the worry that would be his had he chose to remain single. Or perhaps husbands protect wives and wives protect husbands with the result that they do not go to asylums so frequently, and when they do have no one to care for them.

As the matter is interesting, but hardly important. The important thing is that it is age notorious for its disposition to deride the emotions and feelings of human society, Cupid has found an able defender.

Consequently, the happy marriage is not a prison. Marriage is INTELLIGENCE, INSURANCE. Science and experience provide proof.

"HELP AMERICANS to earn enough money to support themselves and their families," says Congresswoman Ellen S. Ross. "I am not a plea for an increase in tariffs on certain goods."

It is not a plea for an increase in tariffs on certain goods, she warns, the German-controlled market for American goods.

On the other hand, Ross' request speaks for itself. The government of Germany is still an American government and it should be treated as such, not only those who have jobs but also those who are unemployed.

To force the tariff and to force our people to compete with the people of Hitler would be unthinkable.

Human Side of News - by EDWIN C. HILL

WHEN I WROTE to pass, left to the stunted juniper tree. Sighting the scrap of rock at the water's edge, we moved toward it 32 paces then lay face downward, looking toward the exact spot where the sun would rise, this being the dawn of the vernal equinox. The light was sufficient to enable me to see the map clearly, and as I sighted along the horizon, my heart beat faster. Here, unmistakably, in my direct line of vision was a mound of earth. Here must be Quirera's treasure —

THE TREASURE HUNTER, a stolid-looking man in a derby hat and a well-tailored covert cloth topcoat, leaped up with alarm. His subway station was Thirty-fourth Street. Mine, too. I had been fishing an eyeful from his book and, sunk in the quicksands of romance, we were lost to the roaring, clanging world of reality and its inexorable commands.

Feeling a bit foolish at least I did—we got off at Twenty-third Street and rode back to take our place in the line again, seeking pieces of eight, to be sure, but in far less adventures and exciting fashion. Looking at the car advertisements of pills and emollients and hangover cures, I wondered if they weren't alien to the day dreams of the others, and whether the vendors wouldn't do better to relate them to themes of practical adventure.

CARIBBEAN VISTA
Land of Gold and Dreams

Oddly enough, when I got to work, I found at hand Natural History, the magazine of the Museum of Natural History, with a bangup true story called "Modern Treasure Islands," which took me right back to where I had left off at Thirty-fourth Street. It is by Dr. Cyrus French Wicker.

The exciting part of the story is that Dr. Wicker, with the aid of scientific instruments, found his treasure on the forbidding keys which jut up like the jaw of a wolf east of the Isle of Pines, south of Cuba.

THE ISLE OF PINES is none other than Stevenson's "Treasure Island."

The treasure he found was African slave money, rings and bracelets, "ruled for centuries in the slave trade in Sierra Leone, Benin and the Gold and Ivory Coast."

Dr. Wicker has spent 14 tons of bar silver, under 18 tons of water and mud; $7,000,000 in a cleft in the Cayo Largo rock, a chest marked by a black mangrove with a spike in its root and the rock-walled treasure cave of San Antonio. I wonder if he doesn't want to hire an apprentice treasure-hunter?

Girl About Town - by ANN MARSTERS

ONE OF THE MOST exclusive spots in town is Symphony Hall during certain afternoons of the season. It is when the Youth Symphony Concerts are in progress, for no groups are admitted except as supervisors.

Next Wednesday afternoon the second of this season's three youth concerts will be given, with Webster Beckett conducting 50 members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

BOSTON LARGED far beyond most large cities in providing special concerts for young people. But Mr. Beckett came along and made us see the error of our ways. He and his orchestra of similar concertists in the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. His program notes for the concert are splendid, and it is a pity that these young people are not more numerous.

At the last concert in February, he asked the young audience if it brought them up to listening to the entire Fifth Symphony of Beethoven. The young people cheered and clapped—so now it's on Wednesday's program.

A FRIEND of mine ran out of money one evening, and her friends are forever being told to be prudent to a kind-hearted lady doing to trust her for the fare home.

But the next day she discovered, to her horror, that she couldn't remember the driver's name—and all she could do was hope for a hail. It arrived a few days later, and left.

Neutrality Joker - by HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, March 27 — There is an absolutely new element in the stop-poker game of diplomatic and military bluff at which Mr. Hitler is taking the pants off European nations and sending each home in a barrel.

It is the unproved effectiveness of aerial and ground equipment for modern mechanized warfare. As has been frequently pointed out here, many military authorities have guessed about its effect—but nobody knows.

THIS GUESSING game includes ourselves. This is especially true in relation to Senator Pittman's proposal to amend the Neutrality Act.

The whole history of the senate and the administration theory shows that it is exactly the reverse of a common neutrality proposal. It is not intended to keep us from taking any part in European wars. On the contrary, it is intended to put us directly into the economic part of any war in Europe on the side of England and France.

The idea is that we shall not permit any sales to any belligerent in any war except on a "cash-

SENATOR PITTMAN
He's In Guessing Game

and-carry" plan. In other words they have to come and get it, no shipments in American vessels.

Because this seems to treat all fighting nations equally, as is proper, it is called neutrality. The joker is the supposition that due to the superiority of the British and French navies, they will have command of the seas. They can buy and Germany and Italy can't Mebberoo. It was so in the World War although, even then, German submarines sent a large part of the British merchant fleet to the bottom of the sea. But will it be so in the event of another European war?

THIS ISN'T advanced necessarily as an argument against the cash-and-carry plan if it is confined by us to a refusal to take military or naval measures to protect American goods, ships or sailors in foreign combat areas.

But it does seriously question whether the unspoken idea of the proposed "non-Neutrality" Act really favors Britain and France against Germany by assuming to favor nobody. May it not, on the contrary, merely constitute the designation of our foreign trade?

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

BOSTONIANS were all dressed up with (just to be different) SOME place to go over the weekend . . . Society had a full schedule with the closing performances of the Metropolitan Opera Company's engagement at the Boston Opera House and the Vincent Club gave away both full dress affairs . . . and many took the train to go on to the Balinese Room of the Hotel Somerset for a spot of caviar and champagne.

With opera librettos tucked under their arms, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird arrived at the concert to top off the evening with a few waltzes. . . Mrs. Bird wore a lovely gown of plaid white satin with shoulder straps and narrow belt of beaded gold chain.

Among her equally well-dressed guests was Mrs. George Deane West, who waved a long green ostrich fan to friends near the door. Her gown was also of pointed white satin and set off her diamond necklace to perfection. Mrs. William Scott, wearing pale blue with matching bows in her hair, was twirled around in an old-fashioned waltz by Mr. Bird.

Isabelle Emery made a quick change from the adorable old-fashioned costume, with garden hats and a yards of them on her skirt, which she wore for her role in the Vincent show, into a black velvet, accented with cherry red, to dance with her escort at the Palace Room.

But a couple of Vincent's adherents, Ruth Williams and Betty Marshall, didn't bother to change from their traditional Vincent costume of lavender cotton with crisp white organdie aprons and frills . . . so they drew puzzled glances from most of the other girls as they danced about in what seemed like housemaids' summer uniforms, while everyone else was in evening clothes . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred McIntyre dined and danced in a party of four and at a nearby table Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Aldrich enjoyed a merry evening with the John E. Kennedys and "Coco" Marlboro. The latter visited at several tables where some of his tennis friends from Lenox were holding forth.

Miss deane, Maggie McKean and Sister Frothingham, arrived just in time for the last dance before the Saturday evening affair, . . . and others enjoying the dancing were Mrs. O. B. Russell of Lounsbury square, and Mrs. Roger Kinnicut who came down from Worcester with her sub-eld daughter, Edith, and several friends. . . . They had dinner, then attended the opera, and later returned for the last dances before driving home to Worcester.

... Mrs. Kinnicutt wore a lovely gown of pleated rose lame with a corsage of American beauties, and one of her guests, Mrs. Benjamin Alton was gowned in the modish combination of royal blue and cherry red chiffon.

Pageant of Unusual Gowns at Opera

THE OPEIA SEASON ended with a veritable pageant of unusual gowns on both sides of the footlights . . . Joan Thomson, head-to-be of Robert Walcott Day, arrived to hear "Russethills" in a red riding hood cape which enveloped her tiny figure in folds of scarlet velvet . . . Reinette Plimpton attracted many admiring glances as she strolled about in a dramatic floor length black cape lined with hyacinth taffeta, with the folds of a byzantine curtain gown peeping out as she walked . . . The neckline of the cape was edged with a band of gray velvet appliqued with small red jewels.

Mrs. John D. Gannett, daughter of H. Wendell Endicott, president of the Boston Opera Association, hardly missed a performance during the ten-day feast of opera . . . At the Saturday matinee she looked like a Parisian couturier's version of Low Midway should dress for the Easter Parade . . . her sheer black wool dress had a black and white printed top, accented with a scarlet belt and pocketbook, and a white band trimmed her broad brimmed black sailor . . . For the evening she changed into a black gown embellished with lapels and shoulder straps of dusty pink . . . Mrs. Endicott's matinee costume, a black dress printed with dusty pink and blue anais, was topped by a smart black hat clouded with yards of pale blue veiling . . .

MRS. RICHARD WARD, JR., of Marblehead interrupted the dessert course to chat over her shoulder with friends at a recent benefit luncheon. Her rose metal cloth dress, zipped almost up to her chin and modish rose straw hat made a very attractive and becoming costume.

H. C. Club
To Dance

One of the gayest affairs on the spring calendar will be the Easter Middy, for which the Holy Cross, U. S. Naval Club of Boston is holding at the Hotel Commodore, April 10.

With many pilgrims home on their vacations and outstanding popular orchestra playing the festival, the get-together should be one of the most of the Easter season.

Show Smart Event

It was difficult to drink at the fountain, but I managed to show Saturday at the Cape. I was very tired, but I was enjoying the spring while I waited for the car to come. The other children, fetching bags and baskets, were at the affair in aid of the Cape. I was very tired, but I was enjoying the spring while I waited for the car to come.

It was an outstanding success party, due to the tireless efforts of the committee headed by Esther Ashworth of Quincy. She was exceedingly smart in her dress of navy and white polka dot topped with a frilly white blouse.

BRUINS OFF FOR N. Y. BENT ON FOUR IN ROW

Schmidt Outstanding in Third Game Against Rangers

before they enter the Stanley Cup final.

"Until the Redwings took the Flying Frenchmen two straight, after blowing the opening game in Montreal, I thought the Maple Leafs would breeze into the finals. Now, I'm not so sure.

"The Wings have been strengthened during the past month and the youngsters Jack Adams brought up, I understand, have put some much-needed drive into the veterans.

"Whether we are challenged by Detroit or Toronto to the Stanley Cup series promises to be a thriller.

"We have had the upper hand all season, and we're not going to let go without a battle. I'm confident we can take either the Wings or the Leafs, for this is the most powerful and best-balanced club I've ever had the good fortune to handle."

Missed Colville Shot Series' Turning Point

Judging from their remarks after the game, the Bruins knew they were in a tight spot when Neal Schmidt missed that open net shot at the start of the first period. The Bruins were leading 2-0 and started to play cautiously. When two minutes they received a warning, the Bruins had a chance to win the game and Schmidt missed the shot.

But Schmidt missed the shot, and the Bruins carried the puck back to the center ice zone.

Then the Rangers carried the puck back to the center ice zone.

RANGERS' GOALIE STOPS BOBBY BAUER SHOT

beamed in, shaking up their third straight win for Rangers in this series and their 11th consecutive victory, which is only three short of their all-time mark established 14 years ago, when they won the Stanley Cup.

The Bruinsmen are on their way to New York, where the fourth game of the elimination series will be played tomorrow night. They had won four straight now to be eliminated.

The Rangers realize that they must have a chance to stay in the game for the Stanley Cup. Of course the Blue Shirts will be beat down for they'll receive a thrashing going over from the city's New York fans if they take it to the ice for the fourth time in a row.

If the Bruins jump the Rangers early in tomorrow night's game, it will be interesting to see what kind of hockey the New Yorkers show in when they are convinced that they are fighting a hopeless battle.

In the event the Rangers start to lay the wood on the Bruins, the game may develop into a pretty brawl.

The Bruins have tended strictly to the knocking during this series. The Rangers attempted to steady them up a week ago in New York, but with little success. Woody Dumart drew two penalties, neither of which was warranted, and Eddie Shore was accused of charging while in reality he simply slipped an elbow at Ott Heller.

SHORE A GOOD BOY

The Rangers had hoped to succeed in getting Shore into the new box at ringside at intervals. But Eddie has refused to cut loose with any of his old time swings, which is one of the reasons the Bruins are now enjoying a three game advantage.

However, the Bruins will not sit back and take it if the Rangers attempt to get rough tomorrow night. They have a three game margin and can afford to retaliate and take a few penalties.

Last night's game was played before the largest crowd in the annals of local hockey. The official figures were announced as 15,941. There wasn't an inch of unoccupied space in the building.

Milt Schmidt was the star of the game. He had not figured in any scoring plays until last night though he's been a decided threat since the opening of the playoffs. Schmidt scored two goals in the second period, which put the Bruins two up and another at half time in the final chapter. Bill Cowley continued to give a game record with a third period tally and Louie Pettincher broke into the scoring column with a first assist pass that sent the Russians off on the right foot.

From soon after the opening face off, it was apparent that the Bruins were very much on their games and that Rangers were in for a difficult time. They opened up and started the play to Rangers from the start and but for one exception, clever goal tending in the part of Bert Gardiner for a loose won by a far wider margin.

The line Ranger goal was a fake. Bill Cowley attempted to clear the puck up along the right wing boards in the second period. The pass was right on Babe Pratt's stick and the big defense man let fly at shot from just inside the Boston blue line. Frankie Brimsek shifted across the mouth of the goal cage and had the shot gauged perfectly. But the puck hit the Bruins' backboards by Babe Pratt. However, and caromed off the far post into the net.

The game was cleaner than either of the two previous tilts. There were only three minor penalties, all for tripping, and the rough stuff was practically nil.

Manager Art Ross sent the Kraut line out to start the game and as usual Lester Patrick seemed to have Hiler, Watson and Hiestand. After three minutes of play Milt Schmidt was sent to the penalty box for slashing Cowley, who fell after he was hit.

Then, the Rangers pulled a surprise move. With one man shy, they carried the play to the Bruins and by fast skating and clever puck handling managed to keep the puck in Boston territory, while Patrick was off. The Bruins didn't get out of their own zone to put on any power plays.

However, a couple of minutes after the visitors were at full strength, Ray Gelfin, Bill Hiler and Gordie Pettincher crashed through the New Yorkers' defense and started to mill around until Pettincher back handed the puck into the Ranger net for the first goal of the game.

PETTINCER SCORES

The Kitchener Kids opened the second period and how they opened it. After the face off, the puck was "loose" by a Bruin and called back for a "drag" deep in Boston territory. "Schmidt" beat Watson on the face and whipped the puck to Woody Dumart, who returned the due in the center ice zone.

"Schmidt" went in and around Pratt and beat Gardiner for a beautiful goal. 25 seconds after the face off, the Bruins had taken a 1-0 lead. A minute later and Pratt for a momentary case by Gardiner, would have scored a 2-0 tally.

Three minutes after half time, Pratt intercepted that before man, Babe Pratt, and with the aid of a pass of detection, scored his first goal. The Bruins' lead was 2-0.

At half time, Herbie Schmidt staged another solo but he was ridden off his course and into the backboards by Babe Pratt. However, "Schmidt" didn't quit. He ducked around Pratt, recovered the puck and whistled it back to Gardiner for his second goal of the night. Two minutes later, Milt Hill started a play, which Cowley finished by scoring the fourth and final tally of the game.

Inter-City Card Promises Real Action Tonight

By HERB FINNEGAN

After seeing Sarasota's brand of boxing as portrayed by the disciples of Annette Kellerman, it will be pleasant to attend the Arena tonight where the Irish American A. A. is staging a trinity amateur tournament, with our Boston headliners competing against free-swingers from Buffalo and Philadelphia.

Amateur boxing, as a rule, have not mastered the fantastic creations which the imported Florida artists depict on their reined canvases.

Amateurs, as a rule, are masters of only one thing—action—and we expect to see plenty of it in the miniature national championships tonight.

It will, in truth, be a preview of the "Prisco" bouts for the majority of the boys contesting in the six classes have earned the right to compete on the West Coast by topping amateurs of Golden Gloves championships.

HUB TEAM STRONG

Headlining the Boston team are Johnny Leonard of Taunton, a bantam with the punch of a midweight; Johnny Faxon of South Boston, New England feather king, Red Forest of Cambridge, who looks good enough to win the national championship; Freddie McLean of Roxbury, who had six one round kayos to his credit; a white back Pat Devine, New England light heavyweight champion, and Tony, Pennock of Fall River, Hearst Eastern All America and New England heavyweight champion.

Faxon will have to be at his very best to win his class tonight, for opposed to him will be Herb Conroy of Hingham, state champion, and a former Golden Gloves champion. Versus the middle fly who defeated Faxon in the finals on the eve of the Hyde Park have a proposed prospect with the name of A. C. McChalk, is following the amateurs and will warrant that Faxon himself he would be sports if he had not met Mr. Devine.

Frank White, Paul F. A. Mann, Philbrick, John Leonard, Taunton, and Tony Pennock, Fall River, are the main attractions.

Boxing will be held at the Boston Arena, 100 State St., Boston, at 8 p.m. Tickets are 50c, 75c, 1.00, 1.50, 2.00, 2.50, 3.00, 3.50, 4.00, 4.50, 5.00, 5.50, 6.00, 6.50, 7.00, 7.50, 8.00, 8.50, 9.00, Pin Tourney Swings Into Second Day

What's this? Imagine firing six balls down the alley at once! With this advantage Margie O'Connell who bowls at the Seville Alleys in East Boston is a cinch to take top honors in the bowling tourney now underway.

By WALTER KILEY

Off to a rolling start and with healthy scoring the rule on opening day, a general skiting of the title highs is confidently expected as the fourth annual Boston Evening American-Daily Record grand candlepin bowling tourney lures even larger fields for the second day's contention at Huntington Club today.

Day by day, this record smashing tourney picks up speed and by Wednesday there won't be a men's let-up from early afternoon until midnight.

Tonight's activity is featured by the presence of eight teams representing S. S. Pierce Company of Brookline avenue, Boston.

These eight groups will start at 8:30 and for the next two hours should figure conspicuously in the championship contention.

307 MARK

Athol Millar, well known North Shore proprietor, is another who looks for respectable showings from his teams rolling tonight.

Millar who has allies in both Lynn and Revere has two fine teams competing tonight from Lynn, one a women's unit, "Millar's Pythian Five," the other a men's, the "Dusty League Five."

Today's fields have worthwhile marks to shoot at. Foremost is the women's high three strings mark of 307 produced by Miss Florida Lamoureux of Greenfield, a fine effort which compares most favorably with the championship winning total of 313 scored by Grace Cann of Quincy in the amateur division one year ago.

The men's fields were slower to break away to formidable scoring heights. Newburyport's Sam Howard coming up with the best singles mark of the day, 323 for his three strings, which will probably go by the boards at any moment.

The annual classic continues daily from noon till midnight at the Huntington Club, the finale coming on Saturday night, April 8, when the huge men's open field, some 100 of the greatest male candlepin pinsters in New England, take to the foul lines in one fell swoop, seeking the heavy cash prize which goes to the lucky winners.

Zannelli Seeks K. O. Over Leto

"I'll knock out Jimmy Leto around about the sixth round just to prove I'm on the path back to the top," said Ralph Zannelli of Providence today as he tore into training work.

Zannelli is quite confident he is going to score a K.O. triumph over Leto when they tangle in the feature 10-round bout of the Goodwin A. C. boxing show Friday night at the Boston Arena.

Ralph came back after several months on the side-lines, being knocked there by a batch of bolts, to get nothing more than a draw in a bout at Worcester last Friday night with Buster Carroll.

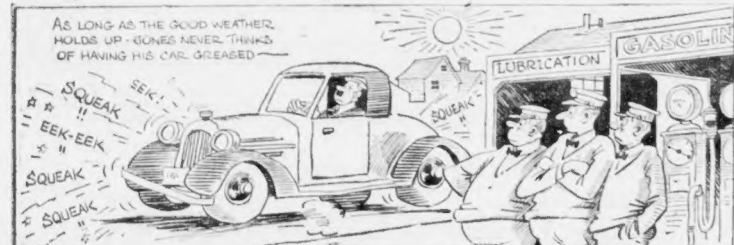

It was regarded as a very weird decision.

Center Field Is Bees' Weak Spot

STENGEL TO MAKE Necessary Changes

BRADENTON, FLA., March 27—Casey Stengel is quite frank in admitting he has one serious problem with his 1939 Bees. It is the outfield.

"I am most concerned about center field," said Casey. "I have been using Jimmy Outlaw in this position. Jimmy is fast and a fair hitter, but has been having his troubles getting under long drives."

"It isn't because he lacks the necessary speed, but rather because he always doesn't judge the ball correctly. I am rooting for Outlaw to improve as a ball hawk. Otherwise I shall have to try to develop somebody else for Vince DiMaggio's old spot."

DiMaggio couldn't hit a raindrop in a thunder shower, but he was the greatest outfielder Boston has had since the palmy days of the great Tri Speaker. DiMaggio could cover a tremendous amount of ground, and he always had a habit of being camped where the agate came down.

DiMaggio's weakness at the bat made it necessary for the Bees to let him go to Kansas City. Vince often looked his poorest when trying to hit straight balls right across the center of the plate.

The history of baseball is that one seldom can develop a weak batter into a hitter of average strength, while a player can be taught how to field so that he at least gets by.

John Dickshot Fixture in Right Field

STENGEL IS SATISFIED with the work of John Dickshot in right field. Dickson is a big, loose limbed fellow who covers considerable territory. He will receive his chance to prove how good he is under big league fire.

Al Simmons will start the season in left field. Simmons has worked harder than any player in camp in an effort to reduce his weight. At the age of 35 Simmons realizes that unless he drives himself at all times he will pack on too much poundage.

Simmons is a natural at the bat. He gets terrific power behind his blows, and should get many extra base hits.

The Bees need players in their outfield who can not only hit safely, but who can smash out extra base wallop. The large open spaces in the Bees outfield call for line hits as the outfielders are able to play deep for the high drives.

"If Outlaw does not improve in his fielding, I may start John Conney in center field," declared Stengel. "Conney is a smart ball player, and is always doing something new to help get a run. You do not have to do any thinking for Conney during the course of a ball game."

Max West is not much better as a fielder than Outlaw, and so is unlikely to win the center field position.

Strength in Center of Club

THE HISTORY of baseball tells us that pennant winners are usually strong in the center of the club. By this I refer to catching, pitching, second base, shortstop and center field. A team can be weak at third base, first base, left field and right field and still not get into a great deal of serious trouble.

The Bees certainly have an abundance of pitching and catching strength.

The keystone combination of Eddie Miller and Tony Cuccinello should prove to be one of the greatest in baseball. Now if Casey Stengel can come up with a first-class center fielder he will not have a great deal to worry about.

The Bees are prepared to make whatever moves are necessary to strengthen center field. This may later result in some kind of a trade.

Stengel has not acted hastily in passing judgment on any of his players. He is anxious to give each player every possible opportunity to make good.

By another week Stengel will make his final decision on some of the players now in camp, and what moves Casey may make will be done with the hope of giving the Bees a first division combination.

I'll Regain Title, Steve Casey Insists

Steve Casey denies he is slipping.

The former world heavyweight wrestling champion, who gets a chance to regain his diadem when he meets Champion Gus Sonnenberg at the Garden, blames all his troubles on a shoulder injury.

"I feel confident I could have defeated the Shadow and retained my title had Promoter Bowser let me train another week as I wished," said the Crusher today.

"My shoulder was so sore I was unable to train properly. But I'm not slipping. Sonnenberg will find that out Wednesday, I'm only 37, you know."

This is a distinct test for Gus Sonnenberg.

If he beats Steve, it will prove to a lot of people that Gus is really a great wrestler again.

Both men have been training hard for this match and are in top physical condition.

They both realize a defeat would spell dismissal from the top ranking mat men and seem determined to avert this.

The under card Wednesday is particularly attractive. The semi-final brings together Mayes Molin, former all-America back from Haskell Institute, and the rough Italian star, Angelo Clatoldi.

Fans Voice Opinions

Everybody is entitled to his opinion and the fans throughout New England have certainly expressed themselves very definitely on the Bees and Red Sox according to the letters which have been pouring into this office.

Here are two today:

William Valade of 41 Woodbine street, Roxbury, has this to say: "In order to plunge directly into this friendly baseball battle ground I want to place myself in the lineup of the roster of the Boston Bees. To me they play heads up, keen and scientific baseball which is the acme of the beauty of the game. Of course they have lacked color and 'big name' players but to make up for this each man has had to cooperate that much more so that their teamwork might bring results which individually could never be obtained. That, in itself is the foundation of their success of ending up as high each year as they have been doing. They have to fight closely for all they achieved and that is one of the answers why no one dares say bluntly just where they will end. So to see a real ball game, I go to the Bees game; but to see a 'cricket match' I join the Sox fans! This is not said sarcastically but to indicate the difference in their systems. The Sox by long drives and game running home runs win their games; the Bees must work steadily and keenly to garner a run."

There is just one more point I'd like to bring up and hear opinions about the "Grapefruit League." I believe the fans like to see their team win always if possible either in that league or in the other. They should play to win and give home rooters opportunities to cheer and not make excuses for failures. It is said that the game is only practice ones to try out rookies. This is undoubtedly so but every other team is doing the same thing so the teams are usually matched. So instead of defeatist sentiments efforts should be made for victory! The more victorious box scores the better!

Good luck to both teams especially to the Bees as their efforts are often not enough appreciated!

Joseph T. O'Neill of Cambridge writes:

"Hoping you will pardon the glove for my saying that the aforementioned Mr. Clancy is out in left field when he starts 'comparing' the Bees and the Sox."

"Will begin at first base. Buddy Hasset is admittedly at 300 hitter and a good ballplayer but cannot come close to Jimmy Fox."

Incidentally, I don't understand why Boston sportswriters are saying that Fletcher is giving Hasset a battle for first base. At second base, Clancy gets by on his knowledge of the hitters. Bobby Doerr is a beautiful flounder and batted well last year. At short there is no comparison. Joe Cronin is the best clutch hitter in baseball and Eddie Miller's highest average in the MINORS is .290!!

"Babe" Garmon, while not a bad ballplayer (he's had only one good year remember) certainly cannot play third base and he's the leading candidate for that berth right now. Jim Tabor, with his ability to "stick" and a marvelous throwing arm, is the choice here. Vosmik is much better than the fading Simmons. Cronin is so far ahead of Outlaw it's funny!

"Ted Williams has far greater potentialities than Max West. Lopes is admittedly a better receiver than Descateula. But this is not by way of saying Lopes is the better man. Lopes is a great receiver. Descateula is a good receiver. Lopes hits 290 whereas Descateula hits 290. Who's the logical choice."

"In the pitching department Jack Wilson has the more stuff than any of the Bees' hurlers and should win over 20! Eldon Auker is a consistently good pitcher and Jack Wilson has the Sox hitting power. All Galehouse needs is work. Hagby proved he has the stuff. In my opinion if Herbie Pennock teaches Jake Wade control it'll be the pennant. Personally I think Mr. Clancy et al were looking through three or four pairs of rose-colored glasses when comparing the two teams!"

SPORTS GRIMES

The Bruins are "in," unless they get mixed up in a train wreck . . . They have taken three straight from Rangers and need just one more decision to step into the Stanley Cup finals . . . And, incidentally, they were rolling last night for the first time in the elimination series.

The Kraut line has snapped out of its slump . . . Herbie Schmidt nicked Bert Gardiner for a couple of goals and Woody Dumart came up with an assist . . . The Bruin veterans got a double kick out of the Red Wings' win over Les Canadiens . . . They are pulling for Tlay to stop the Frenchmen, which he did very nicely and they were highly elated over the fact that Marty Barry scored the lone goal.

The Rangers' sleeping car was dropped off the Owl at New Haven before day-break for five hours and went into New York this morning on the end of a local . . . What would have been the reaction had hickory fans had Bert Gardiner, who is pinch hitting for Davis Kerr in the Ranger net, been injured while tending goal for the Philadelphia Ramblers on Saturday night? . . . Lester Patrick gambled when he allowed his only goalie to participate in a minor league play off game, during a Stanley Cup elimination series . . . Although he released the rotating of officials plan, Frank Calder didn't have any voice in its adoption . . . The Board of Governors came up with that idea . . . But, Art Ross went on record as being opposed to changing officials for each game.

Frankie Brimsek is the first "rookie" ever selected for the N. H. L. All-Star team . . . And, he's an American, born and raised, who has played all of his hockey in the "States" . . . Art Ross will hold Charlie Sands for the Stanley Cup finals . . . The Bruin right winger will be ready for action before the end of the week . . . Phil Watson, the Ranger center, enjoyed himself during the two day visit of the Montreal Concordia squad . . . He had a chance to brush up on his native tongue, French . . . For some reason (maybe he saw the hand writing on the wall, during the regular season), Lester Patrick hasn't allowed himself to become unduly wrought up over the defeats his Rangers have taken from the Bruins . . . He's been affable and gracious after each game . . . A rare condition for a N. H. L. manager in defeat.

Win Green is on the hospital list down at Sarasota . . . He developed a bad back but the chances are he's up and around today now that the Bruins have taken three straight . . . Walter "Marty" Dillon, one of Dartmouth's immortal gridiron stars, is a rabid hockey fan . . . He comes down from Pittsburgh for all Bruin games . . . Ag Smith and Rabbit McVeigh did a nice job . . . Rabbit called some very close off sides and didn't miss enough to handicap either club . . .

Jack Crawford was lucky that he was wearing a helmet when he crashed into Bryan Hestall, at the Bruin gate, during the first period . . . Jack's head hit the ice with sufficient force for the contact to be heard in the press stand . . . He retired to the bench very foggy . . . Jack Portland turned in a great game . . . Conney Weiland got his letter in the first period . . . Art Coulter dropped Ed Hamill with a sweet elbow check . . . He's very free with those fins of his . . . The Kraut line was really flying . . . Herbie Schmidt staged a number of solos and with a couple of breaks he'd have scored two or three more times . . . As it was, he came up with two tallies . . .

There were only three penalties . . . Muzz Patrick was the victim on two occasions. Shibley received the other.

"Dutch" Heller has been covering Bobby Bauer like a tent in this series . . . The midget right winger, L's Patrick, hasn't been able to check off his check in three games, which speaks well for Heller's back checking.

Having shipped all of his minor league ball players down to Charleston, W. Va., Johnny Quinn, of the Bees, took the evening off and watched the game . . . Ag Smith was hit by the puck four times . . .

RADIO ANNOUNCER KNOWS AMPLE HAIR IS PRICELESS

RUSSELL E. OFFHAUS, better known as "Farmer Russ" to thousands of radio listeners over stations WCOF and WAAB, knows that except in very rare cases baldness is a permanent condition. He also knows that through treatment by John E. Warner, New England's leading hair and scalp specialist, he can be sure of saving his hair (as have hundreds of other Boston men). You, too, if you are losing your hair should consult this expert. There is no charge or obligation for private consultation. JOHN E. WARNER'S offices are at 515 Washington St., opposite R. H. White's, near the corner of West St. Hours: 10 A. M. to 5 P. M. daily, Saturday to 6 P. M. Associates in most of the principle cities. Adv.

Garden to Stage Softball

Softball, a game which has taken the Mid-west by storm, will be introduced at the Garden this summer by Walter Brown.

It is Brown's intention to floor a team made up of Greater Boston girls, called the Olympets, and have them face teams from Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago and Canada.

Edna Stafford, Wakefield field grad, and Dora Taglienti of Newton, are two of the young girls who will try out for the Boston team.

Any girl who cares for a try-out should get in touch with Howie McHugh at the Garden.
